

Go-Eun Kim

Ph.D. Candidate

Department of Communication, University of Missouri, Columbia

108 Switzler Hall 311, Columbia, Missouri 65211

•gekim219@gmail.com

EDUCATION

---

2019 –
(expected) 2023

Ph.D. in Communication

University of Missouri, Columbia

Advisor: Benjamin Warner

2016 - 2018

M.A in Journalism and Mass Communication

Korea University, Seoul, South Korea

Advisor: Young Min

2011 - 2016

B.A in Communication

Sungshin Women's University, Seoul, South Korea

RESEARCH INTEREST

---

- Media Effects
The influence of media exposure, partisan media, and media representative of minorities
- Intergroup Communication
Intergroup stereotype, intergroup contact
- Political Communication
Persuasion, misinformation, polarization

AWARDS

---

2022      Top student paper award
Political Communication Division, ICA

2020      Top paper award
Political Communication Division, ICA

PUBLICATIONS

---

Warner, B. R., Park, J., Kim, G., & Coffey, A. N. (2022). Partisan media and polarization in the 2020 campaign. In B. R. Warner, D. G. Bystrom, M. S. McKinney, & M. C. Banwart (Eds.), Democracy Disrupted: Communication in the Volatile 2020 Presidential Election. Santa Barbara, CA: Praeger.

Kim, G., Warner, B. R., Kearney, C., Park, J., & Kearney, M. W. (2021). Social watching the 2020 presidential and vice-presidential debates: the effect of ideological homogeneity and partisan identity strength. Argumentation and Advocacy, 57, 253-266.

Warner, B. R., Park, J., Kim, G., McKinney, M. S., & Paul, W. B. (2021). Do Presidential Primary Debates Increase Political Polarization?. American Behavioral Scientist.

Park, J., Warner, B. R., McKinney, M. S., Kearney, C., Kearney, M. W., & Kim, G. (2021). Partisan Identity and Affective Polarization in Presidential Debates. American Behavioral Scientist.

Kim, J., & Kim, G. (2021). Hedonic and Eudaimonic Entertainment Consumption Experiences and Political Social Effects. Locality & Communication, 25, 67-104. (Written in Korean)

CONFERENCE PRESENTATIONS

---

Ahn, J., Kim, G. (2022, September). The effects of anti-feminist speech online: Focusing on the gender gap in online expression. Paper presented at the 118th American Political Science Association Annual Meeting and Exhibition.

Ahn, J., Kim, G. (2022, May). Online backlash against feminism: negative labeling of feminists discourages women from speaking about gender issues online. Paper presented at the 72nd annual International Communication Association conference.

*Top paper in Political Communication division

Kim, G., Park, J., & Figueroa-Caballero. (2022, March 30 - April 2). Does national identity reduce intergroup bias? Revisiting the common ingroup identity amid the COVID-19 pandemic. Paper presented at Central States Communication Association 2022 Annual Convention.

Warner, B., Park, J., Kim, G., & Coffey, A. (2022, March 30 - April 2). Partisan Media and Polarization in the 2020 campaign. Paper presented at Central States Communication Association 2022 Annual Convention.

Kim, G., & Park, J. (2021, March). Affective polarization around presidential debates: analyzing language/communication patterns of partisan supporters on social media. Paper presented at the Central States Communication Association 2021 conference.

Warner, B., Park, J., & Kim, G. (2020, May). Tuning in and catching up: The differential effects of partisan media at before and after an election deepening on prior political polarization. Paper presented at the 70th annual International Communication Association conference.

*Top paper in Political Communication division

Ahn, J., Kim, G., & Kim, T. (2020, April). Speaking better but feeling worse? Experimental evidence of intergroup deliberation on same-sex marriage. Paper accepted at the 78th annual Midwest Political Science Association.

Kim, G. (2018, October). Exploring the spillover effects of deliberation: Analysis of news coverage of public deliberation on Shin-Gori nuclear reactor No. 5&6. Paper Presented at the fall conference of Korea Society for Journalism and Communication Studies, South Korea.

Kim, G. (2017, May). Rational voting among young and elderly voters in the 2016 South Korea legislative election. Paper Presented at the spring conference of Korea Society for Journalism and Communication Studies, South Korea.

ACADEMIC EMPLOYMENT

---

- Fall 2022      Graduate Instructor, University of Missouri (Fall 2022)
- Political Communication (Online)
- 2019- 2022    Graduate Teaching Assistant, University of Missouri (2019-2022)
- Introduction to Communication
- Media Communication in Society
- Political Communication
- 2016-2017    Graduate Teaching Assistant, Korea University (2016-2017)
- Political Communication
- Media Effect Theories

SERVICES

---

- 2021-2022    Graduate advisor
The Intercollegiate Communication Organization of Mizzou (iCOM)
- 2021-2022    Student leader team
Political Communication Institution (PCI) at the University of Missouri, Columbia
- 2021            Ad hoc reviewer
Mass Communication and Society
- 2021            Ad hoc Reviewer
International Communication Association

PROFESSIONAL MEMBERSHIP

---

International Communication Association (ICA)
National Communication Association (NCA)
Central States Communication Association (CSCA)
Political Communication Institution (PCI) at the University of Missouri, Columbia