New Center to Study Diversity in Media

Assistant Professor Julius Riles, Associate Professor Elizabeth (Lissa) Behm-Morawitz and Associate Professor Astrid Villamil have been named co-directors of the new Media and Diversity Center (MDC), which will be housed within the Department of Communication. The MDC will sponsor research on diversity and inclusivity in the news media, and will host public programs on topics such as race, gender, and sexual orientation, to enhance the diversity of portrayals in the media. Their exciting projects can be found on the center's website: mdc.missouri.edu.
